

ABSTRACT

A system and method for managing marketing communications. The invention provides a system for rapid response marketing which is based upon performance of marketing communications. The system provides a rapid, data driven and highly efficient marketing capability for an individual advertiser.

5